

Dr. Deborah Kopansky-Giles, BPHE, DC, FCCS, FICC, MSc, is a Professor at the Canadian Memorial Chiropractic College, Department of Research and Innovation and an Assistant Professor in the Faculty of Medicine, University of Toronto. Dr. Kopansky-Giles is actively engaged in collaborative, primary care health service delivery research (locally and internationally) with a focused area related to integrative models of health care, health policy, competency-based education, and interprofessional education of health professional trainees. Dr. Kopansky-Giles is an Executive Committee member of the Global Alliance for Musculoskeletal Health International Coordinating Council (of the UN Bone and Joint Decade), sits on the WHO Health Workforce Education Hub and is a member of the WHO Collaborating Centre on Family Medicine and Primary Care at the University of Toronto. She has been actively involved in WHO work on Integrated, People-Centred Care, Healthy Ageing and Global Health Workforce programs over the past decade and currently represents the WFC on the WHO World Rehabilitation Alliance Primary Care Workstream advisory committee. Deborah has been a board member for the OCA, the CCA, represented Canada as a WFC Executive Council member for 15 years and is currently a member of the WFC Committee on Official Relations with the WHO. She is currently involved in 3 Canadian government funded projects related to integrated care.