

Lisbeth Lund Pedersen is a dedicated physiotherapist with a strong focus on bridging evidence-based research and clinical practice. With a deep interest in concussion rehabilitation, she actively implements the best available evidence into her work and shares her knowledge through teaching, articles, and professional resources.

Lisbeth has extensive experience in sports physiotherapy and rehabilitation of individuals with long-term sickness. She currently works as a project physiotherapist in Svendborg Municipality, Denmark, where she has led initiatives for individuals recovering from concussions. Her commitment to continuous learning and development is evident in her roles as a lecturer at the University of Southern Denmark and as a board member of the Danish Society for Sports Physiotherapy.

Her career spans multiple sectors within the Danish healthcare system, including municipal, hospital, and primary care settings, offering her a comprehensive understanding of healthcare integration. Lisbeth is a recognized expert in concussion management and sports rehabilitation, having contributed to clinical guidelines and educational resources in the field.