

Jakob Dersch is a chiropractor who graduated from University of Southern Denmark and has experience from several clinics in different parts of Denmark. He is an external examiner on the chiropractic educational program and a former instructor of medical- and chiropractic students in clinical courses.

Jakob is a board member of the Danish Society of Chiropractic and has been working with communication and video-production-projects that includes making research easily applicable to Danish clinicians and creating video-material used in chiropractic post-graduate education courses.

In 2024 Jakob was a speaker at the Danish Chiropractors' Association's annual general meeting where he discussed the future of the chiropractic profession. On WFC25 he will be co-presenting the "digital innovation workshop" with a focus on tools and technology that can be used in different aspect of clinical practice.