

Dr. Melissa Atkinson-Graham is a medical anthropologist and chiropractor. Her research focuses on lived experiences of healthcare and health systems, and her areas of study include rehabilitation, musculoskeletal health, and critical disability studies. She is currently a Scientist at the Institute for Disability and Rehabilitation Research (IDRR) at Ontario Tech University.